Student and Presidential Committee on Sexual Assault (SPCSA)

The purpose of the Student and Presidential Committee on Sexual Assault is to serve as an intermediary between students and the larger Dartmouth College community including the administration, faculty, and alumni of the college. The annual symposium, held virtually this year, is one of the channels through which SPCSA communicates with the broader Dartmouth community. Another main functions of the SPCSA is to plan and implement cross-campus initiatives to address sexual violence, including but not limited to: advising the administration and student groups about sexual assault; engaging faculty; and promoting community-wide programs. We also aim to enhance the effectiveness of and communication between other working groups and individuals. Please refer to our website to learn more about our projects.

This year's SPCSA chairs are:

Maggie Flaherty '21 (Executive Chair)

Lex Kang '21 (Policy Chair)

Gabi Cooper '21 (Outreach Chair)

Amanda Childress (she/hers)

Assistant Director, Student Wellness Center

Amanda Childress has been working as a public health practitioner for over 15 years, specializing in sexual violence prevention and response. As the Associate Director of the Student Wellness Center, she oversees sexual violence prevention efforts on campus and is leading a team to develop the Sexual Violence Prevention Project, a comprehensive and mandatory 4-year undergraduate curriculum. Amanda came to Dartmouth in 2011 as a Sexual Assault Awareness Program Coordinator providing survivor support and advocacy before transitioning her focus specifically to prevention. Amanda holds a Bachelor of Psychology and a dual Master of Education in Clinical Mental Health & School Counseling.

Mingwei Huang (she/hers)

Assistant Professor, Women's, Gender, & Sexuality Studies · Faculty Fellow, Dartmouth Consortium of Studies in Race, Migration, and Sexuality

Mingwei Huang is an assistant professor in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and fellow in the Consortium of Studies in Race, Migration, and Sexuality. Before coming to Dartmouth in 2018, she has presented on and written about sexual violence and academic institutions and participated in a community accountability process. She incorporates intersectional and transformative justice approaches to sexual violence in her WGSS courses and advises the Sexual Assault Peer Alliance (SAPA).

Misty De Berry (any pronouns)

Visiting Lecturer, Women's, Gender, & Sexuality Studies · Artist-Scholar in Residence, Dartmouth Consortium of Studies in Race, Migration, and Sexuality

Misty De Berry is a visiting lecturer in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and an artist-scholar in residence with the Dartmouth Consortium for Studies in Race, Migration, and Sexuality. She holds a PhD in Performance Studies from Northwestern University and recently completed a post-doctoral fellowship in MIT's Department of Literature and the program in Women's and Gender Studies. Her research takes up the relationship between Black women, temporality, and everyday practices under the logics of racial capitalism. In addition to research, Misty engages in building communities through transformative justice and Reiki healing modalities.
